GOVERNOR MIKE HUCKABEE CAMPAIGNS FOR BROWN, DAINES IN BILLINGS AND BOZEMAN

Billings - Republican Presidential contender and Governor Mike Huckabee spoke passionately about the need for conservative change at a breakfast and lunch events held to benefit the Roy Brown and Steve Daines campaign for Governor and Lt. Governor.

"When we founded Huck PAC we did so with the idea that we would support Republican candidates who are advocates for tax reform, life, family, less government and individual liberty," said Huckabee.

"Roy Brown is an able legislator who is known for his strong advocacy for tax reform, education, energy development and the strong importance of government supporting and empowering the Family. Steve Daines is a fifth generation Montanan with a business background in technology and advertising. His fresh ideas and business, can-do attitude are a great addition to Roy's impressive business experience and his legislative acumen. I'm proud to be here today to support their campaign," Huckabee added.

Brown and Daines were joined by overflow crowds who welcomed Governor Huckabee at the Billings breakfast and Bozeman luncheon. "It's an honor to have a committed conservative here to campaign on our behalf," said Brown. "Governor Huckabee shares our commitment to a strong economy, lower taxes, and protecting our faith, family, and freedom, and Steve Daines and I will continue to bring that message to the people of Montana.

"As we've traveled around this state, Montanans have been clear: they want a smarter, more accountable government," said Daines, who served as the Montana Campaign Chairman for Huckabee's presidential bid. "Roy and I are dedicated to reigning in government spending, lowering taxes, and finding new, innovative solutions to the challenges Montanans face. We're focused on results, not rhetoric, and we'll fight for those principles in Montana's capitol."
